Important Information

We recommend that each of you retains a copy of these notes. Please read the notes carefully before completing this mandate.

You should use this mandate if you are opening a joint account. We will assume that this mandate covers all your joint accounts unless you tell us otherwise.

The instructions in this mandate mean that any one of you can give us instructions on behalf of all of you. This includes making withdrawals, dealing with anything left with us in safe keeping, writing cheques, asking us to stop payments and giving us any other instructions for the operation of your account, including requesting for your account to be closed.

Anyone of you will be able to ask us to open other account(s) in the joint names for all of you. Each one of you will be individually liable to us for the total of any debt on any account in your joint names.

If any of you inform us of a dispute between you then we will require all further instructions to be given by all of you.

We may disclose to any of you any information held about the account(s).

The detail of your instruction is set out in sections 2 and 3 of the mandate and you must read this very carefully.
